

Production Record Set By Guernsey

A state Guernsey record in class A for Michigan has just been made by Cilla M., No. 45875, owned by Mr. John Endicott, of Detroit. The new year's record stands at 17,088.8 lbs. of milk and 808.2 lbs. of butterfat, replacing old class A record of 14,201.1 pounds, held by Abbey of Riverside. The new record is also better than the class AA record made by the Michigan Agricultural College cow, Carrie of Hillhurst, whose mark is 15,307.8 pounds of milk and 814.83 pounds of fat.

LUCHTMAN AND KELDER SPOKE AT LUNCHEON

He explained that the crowded condition in the high school would not be so acute in the fall because of this number leaving the high school, but that it would again become very serious next February when another class would come into the high school, with none leaving at that time.

He called attention to the various functions at the high school and the improvement that is being shown, comparing the in and out football team of last fall with the much more consistent work that is being secured in basketball. He also mentioned the glee clubs, the orchestra, the literary organizations, etc., as aiding in bringing about better school work.

He spoke of the classification of the students according to ability and of supervised study in the high school, and with a graphical curve covering the work of two semesters under the old system of study and three semesters under the new system showed that there are only about half the number of failures now that there formerly were. Credit for the improvement because of the interest of the teachers in the new system was given to the instructors by Mr. Luchtmann.

Mr. Kelder spoke of the necessity of giving the children of the city the best possible education for all children of the community, as it is owing to the children, and is owing to the country.

He spoke of the efforts that were made to better school conditions and study conditions here, and stated that Alma in its efforts to secure good grade teachers was one of the first cities in the state to adopt a minimum wage of $1,000 for grade teachers. He also mentioned the lengthening of the school year, that the method of supervised study might be worked out, as it makes possible a longer work period, and permits of a better scientific study.

He told of the recent establishment of the supervised study in the grades, which had not been previously possible because of the crowded condition in some of the grades, and of the standardized and intelligence tests, by which it is possible to arrive at a definite conclusion as to a student's knowledge as compared for a general average for his grade.

The division of grades into two or three classes for the pupils who learn quickly, a certain subject, for those who are rated as medium students and those who are slow, was pointed out, which allows each type of student to advance as he is able, and which does not hold back one class, giving it plenty of leisure time, while the other is learning, or which does not swamp the slower student because another is able to learn more quickly.

He spoke of the furnishing of milk in the schools for the pupils who are under nourished, and then of the broadened curriculum in the schools with manual training, domestic science, etc., in the grades.

Considerable attention was devoted to the teaching staff and how the determination to pay $1,200 had made it possible for Alma to build up a strong teaching staff. This he compared with other schools who paid a smaller sum for their teachers, and were forced to take inexperienced ones, and often found that they were very unsatisfactory. As one example he pointed out a school which had secured five teachers of this type last year and which, finding them all unsatisfactory, had determined to secure five new instructors next year.

The matter of attendance was taken up and the crowded condition of the schools was shown and it was predicted that very shortly Alma would be forced to build a new junior high school that would care for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. By the inclusion of the ninth grade in a junior high he said that nearly 100 students would be taken from the high school, which would then have room for years to come. In this connection he pointed out that in March 1920 there were 1548 students in the schools and in March 1921 a total of 1648. On March 6, 1922, there was a total of 1876 pupils in the schools. In closing Mr. Kelder stated that the per capita cost of educating these pupils is just 22 cents per day.

The Solar System.

The astronomer, Copernicus, who lived from 1473 to 1543, laid down as the foundation of his explanation of the solar system that the sun was fixed and that the earth and all the planets moved around it. Kepler (1571-1630) found that the planets moved in ellipses, not circles, round the sun. Kepler deduced three conclusions, respecting the movements of the planets, known as Kepler's Three Laws, and Sir Isaac Newton, (1642-1727) proved that they are a consequence of a single universal law of gravitation.

FARMER, BUSINESS MEN!

Alma, Mich., March 7, 1922.

These are times when every kind of business and every calling is being tried and melted in the caldron called success, and all unnecessary material and debris eliminated.

There is not a manufacturing business of any kind but which has lost money lately, and to survive must cut all expenses and waste to the lowest possible point which human brains, used to their utmost capacity, can devise.

Our farms are only manufacturing plants, where we produce the food in its raw state to sustain our nation. During war times it took very small brain energy to make money from our farms and many farmers, as well as manufacturers, spent their time and money very unnecessarily, foolishly and lavishly and now by the times compelling them to use their brain energy more efficiently they are realizing this fact.

We farmers must not throw away any more time or money foolishly in running our factory (the farm) the coming season. It has often been said that the American farmers (and quite truly) are like a flock of sheep they all go the way one goes, for if a certain crop brings a fair price at sowing time they will all increase their crop acreage along this line, which in normal times will always make a low price at harvest time, or in other words, a surplus of any of our ordinary farm crops reduces the price so much that one-half or two-thirds of the number of acres put in to the same crop would have brought us very much more money.

You can't afford to take this chance, but raise about the same amount of your regular farm crops, being sure that you plan carefully to give each crop the best possible chance to do its best for you by fitting your ground thoroughly, sowing in time, cultivating and caring for it properly. The old saying of not putting your eggs all into one basket is mighty safe in farming in our locality, where we have soil and climatic conditions so efficient for diversified farming.

A new way to treat croup Spasmodic croup relieved or warded off by rubbing on a vaporizing salve.

The old method of treating spasmodic croup with nauseating drugs is out of date. So is the vapor-lamp scheme that required the bedroom windows to be kept closed. Now mother rubs the little one's chest and throat with Vicks, arranges the bedding so that the arising vapors will be inhaled all night long, opens the windows to let in the blessed fresh air, and retires—confident of a good sleep.

Vicks has come to be the almost universal treatment for children's cold troubles, because it does away with dosing. Vicks contains the old, time-tested remedies—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, etc.—combined by special process, so that while they penetrate and stimulate the skin, the ingredients are also released as vapors by the body heat and are breathed right into the lungs.

Just rub it on and breathe in the vapors
